Only Narrow Changes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Stock
prices made further substantial gains today, with the railroads and specialties in the forefront of the advance. While some of the standard industrials, such as U. S.
Steel common, General Motors and American Can, showed only narrow fractional changes, final quotations disclosed a long list of active issues up 2 to nearly 9 points, with a few high-priced shares up 10 to nearly 30 points.Inasmuch as Friday's call money rate always carries over the weekend, the credit situation was not a direct factor in today's market.
Wall street expects, however, that the call rate, which held steady at 7 per cent all week, will go higher next week, although predictions are few weeks ago that the mid-year money rate would rival that of March are not likely to be fulfilled.
Heavy profit taking cut down
some of the early gains in the rail
group. New York & Harlem soared 3 points and lost 4; Jersey Central jumped 25 points; Texas & Pacific
4, Nashville, Chattanooga &
St. Louis 4, and Chesapeake Corporation 2.Railway operation reports should be available in goodly numbers early next week. Those which have appeared thus far, however,
the largest road among them being Chesapeake & Ohio, might have been expected to have a recording influence on the market,
but the net is generally smaller in spite of better gross returns.

Auburn Up 27 1/2 Points.

Auburn Auto, which has only a small volume of stock outstanding in the hands of the public, scored a sensational gain of 27 1/2 points by touching a new high at 207. Columbian Carbon ran up nearly 20 points to a new high at 198, but lost 2 points of its gain. United Aluminum common ran up 1 1/2 points and the preferred nearly 5.Simmons Co., which reports large current earnings, jumped 8 1/2 points on what appeared to be a word of pool activity. Bendis, Wright aviation, American Telephone, International Harvester, Pacific Telephone and Goodyear closed 3 to nearly 6 points higher.Coppers were again in good demand, with Anaconda, American Smelting and Greene Cananea closing with net gains of 2 points or more.United Aircraft soars.
Renewal of speculation for the rise in the airplane shares made craft was seen to stall and slip to the left, crashing to the ground before Dunlap could

COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—A first degree murder indictment today stood against Dr. James H.
Snook, dismissed Ohio State University professor of veterinary medicine, awaiting trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, 25-year-old student of medicine.Snook's attorneys announced they would not permit him to plead guilty, as he had indicated
he would. Prosecutor John J.
Chester Jr. considered requesting a special term of court for the trial, since county courts now are in summer recess.Despite his written confession that he killed the woman in a jealous quarrel, Mrs. Snook today declared she thought her 49-year-old husband was innocent, and said she would stand by him through the trial."It is impossible for me to realize or believe that Dr. Snook committed this crime," the wife of the former professor of veterinary said. "He could not have done such a thing. For seven years he has been a thoughtful husband, and I will go to him as soon as I am permitted."Snook admitted after a 24-hour
questioning with police and Prosecutor Chester that he slew the young woman a week ago Thursday night
on a lonely rifle range near here because she threatened to kill his wife and 2-year-old daughter if he took them out of town over the week-end. He beat her into unconsciousness with a hammer and then cut her throat with his pocket knife "to end her suffering," he said.A plea of temporary derangement was under consideration by defense attorneys. It was indicated, Snook's attorneys also hinted at a possible defense plea.
Snook said in his confession that the young woman was reaching into her bag, where she sometimes carried a pistol, when she left his car just before the killing. The indictment specifically charges premeditated murder.Chester said he would have Snook's mental condition determined by alienists.Snook will be arraigned on the charge today, when it is expected agreement on the date of the trial.

alty for a conviction returned without recommendation of mercy.NINE AIR LINES SHOW that nine companies had a total income of $2,238,057, with ex-surplus of $1,591,909. The planes of these nine concerns flew 2,372, 165 miles, at an average cost of 69.4 cents a mile.Despite the 10 which operated at a loss, the 19, taken as a whole, operated at a profit. Their revenue was $2,858,020, while expenditures were $2,653,052, leaving a balance of $1,204,968.There are about 41 air transport companies in the United luctant to respond to the Government's questions as to earnings and two men who shot and wounded J.

was mounted. They ordered the train stopped at the point, and when the engineer refused he was shot in the arm.The engineer was then forced to back his train to the point where the machine gun on the automo-

EFFECT ACCORD REACHED
WITH CATHOLIC CHURCHStatements by President and
Bishop of the Terms of PeaceMEXICO CITY, June 22.—
Following are statements by President Portes Gil and Archbishop Ruiz y Flores who negotiated the resumption of relations between church and state in Mexico:

President's Statement

President Portes Gil's statement follows:
I have had conversations with Archbishop Ruiz y Flores and Bishop Pascual Diaz. These conversations took place as the result of public statements made by Archbishop Ruiz on May 2
and a statement made by me on May 8.Archbishop Ruiz and Bishop Diaz informed me that the Mexican Bishops have felt that the constitution and laws, particularly the provision which requires registration of ministers and the provision which grants separate states the right to determine the maximum number of ministers, threaten the identity of the church, giving the state the control of its spiritual offices.They assure me that the Mexican Bishops are animated by sincere patriotism, and that they desire to resume public worship,
if it can be done consistently with their loyalty to the Mexican republic and their conscience. They stated that it could be done, if the church could enjoy the freedom within the law to live and to exercise its spiritual offices.I am glad to take advantage of this opportunity to declare publicly and very clearly that it is not the purpose of the Constitution, nor the law, nor of the Government of the Republic to destroy the identity of the Catholic Church or of any other,
or to interfere in any way with its spiritual functions.In accordance with the oath of office which I took when I assumed the provisional government of Mexico to observe and to cause to be observed the Constitution of the republic and the laws derived therefrom, my purpose has been at all times to fulfill honestly that oath and see that the laws are applied without favor to any sect and without any bias whatever. I will feel without doubt the benedictions which come together with harmony and the
close union of a whole nation
with its government.No more than that, however, I feel most deeply obliged to all those
who have interested themselves
in this solution and have helped us to reach this solution which,
if not complete, is a road by which to reach a complete one.Archbishop Ruiz later issued a second and less formal statement as follows:
I consider this settlement as
the beginning of a real era of peace for the Mexican people, which will feel without doubt the benedictions which come together with harmony and the
close union of a whole nation
with its government.No more than that, however, I feel
most deeply obliged to all those
who have interested themselves
in this solution and have helped
us to reach this solution which,
if not complete, is a road by which to reach a complete one.The order looking toward turning the churches back to the priests was issued by the Department of Interior, which instructed governors of all states to list all Catholic churches in their domains with the names of the committee parishioners in charge and send other information regarding them
as is available.Conference Scheduled Soon.
It was said representatives of the Government would confer promptly with the prelates over the form in which the churches would be back to the clergy. Archbishop Ruiz y Flores, apostolic delegate, will issue a circular Monday on the proposed return.The Department of Interior, by its orders releasing women religious prisoners, numbering nearly 100, excluded Mother Concepcion who is under a 20-year sentence as the "intellectual author" of the assassination of Gen. Obregun who was killed by Jose Leon Toral Orders were issued to each of the states to cease making arrests for violations of the religious laws, and for the release of 50 religious prisoners in Mexico City.These included among other Padre Modesto Chaves Pulido, arrested some time ago in Jalisco
and brought here.POPE CABLES

INCREASED FARM RATES TAKEN UP IN TARIFF HEARING

North Dakota Congressman Urges 70-Cent Scale on Flaxseed Instead of 56 Before Senate Group.

HIGHER SCHEDULE ON MEAT SOUGHT
Boost in Import Duty on Latin-American Products Demanded to Meet Competition.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Roundings out a week had a half of hearings on the House tariff bill, three Senate Finance subcommittees yesterday heard witnesses plead for changes in the measure principally with respect to agriculture.

Higher rates on flax seed, milk feeds, screenings and sweet clover were urged before the subcommittee on Agriculture by Congressman Burdette (Rep.), North Dakota, who said there was much room for improvement of the House bill, even though it contained rates on agricultural products "better than any tariff bill in history."

A 70-cent-a-bushel duty on flaxseed as compared with the present rate of 56 cents and the bill rate of 62 cents, Burdette contended, would encourage a greater diversification of crops in the northwest and bring many thousands of acres now growing surplus crops into the production of a more profitable commodity.

Burdette maintained the 55-cent duty recently proclaimed by President Hoover did not take into account a fair basis of production cost in Argentina, the principal competing country, as it made allowances for profit. The 70-cent rate, he said, would equalize what he believed to be the actual differences in cost between this country and Argentina.

Latin-American Rates.
Latin-America also figured in arguments on live cattle and fresh meat rates.

W. C. Green, Naco, Ariz., representing American interests in Mexico, Arizona, and California, protested against the proposed increase in rates on feeder cattle, declaring imports into the United States from Mexico and Canada were small. He asked maintenance of the present 14-cent-a-pound duty on cattle weighing up to 900 pounds as against a house rate of 2 cents up to 800 pounds.

Declaring domestic cattle breeders faced a menace in the possible lifting of the sanitary embargo against Argentine cattle and meats, C. B. Enman of Farmington, Mo., representing the National Live Stock Producers' Association, sought higher duties than those provided in the measure and suggested feeder and beef cattle be defined by name and grade instead of by weight.

Cherry importers and domestic growers clashed over the higher tariffs proposed in the bill. George McDowen, New York, representing the National Growers' Association, argued for retention of existing rates on pitted cherries in brine coming principally from Italy, and Congressman Free (Rep.) of California, contending for higher rates.

Senator Frazier (Rep.) of North Dakota, read telegrams before an ad hoc subcommittee on flax, hemp and jute, protesting against any change in duties on burlap and burlap bags.

J. M. Walsh of the Elliott-Granville Lumber Corporation, New York, condemned the bill as "unscientific methods" in the House provisions affecting linen, yarns and threads. Testimony for and against specific rates together with ad valorem rates on cotton and chinaware was heard before a third subcommittee.

EXPLOSION AT TAKING OF FORD'S PICTURE

Several Hurt on New York Pier When Flashlight Powder Goes Off Accidentally.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 22.—One cameraman was burned and several passengers disembarking from the Cunard liner Berengaria were cut by flying glass yesterday when a bottle of flashlight powder which photographers had been using in taking pictures of Henry Ford, Edsel, and the latter's family, exploded on the pier. None of the Ford party was hurt.

John Schultz, owner of the flashlight powder, was burned and cut by the broken bottle. Cameramen had just finished taking flashlight pictures of the Fords, and most of them had moved away. When Schultz stooped over to pick up his camera in his case, the explosion occurred.

Joseph Kepner, another cameraman, suffered cuts on his face. Miss Anne McCormick of Mount Lenciana, Pa., was among the passengers who were cut about their ankles and legs by flying glass.

Henry Ford had gone to the pier to meet his son Edsel, the latter's wife, and their two children. Henry Ford, II, and Benson, who were returning from Europe, both children were frightened, but their grandfather quieted them.

The explosion was said to have been caused by accidental pressure on the trigger of Schultz's flashlight "gun" as he stooped to pick up the uncovered bottle of powder.

BURIAL OF AMIE WESTPHAL, NOTED TURF WOMAN, TODAY
In Her Heyday She Ran Hotel Called the Sporting Duchess.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, June 22.—Mrs. Amie Westphal, 77 years old, whose saloon, the Paddock, at 345 Pearl street, and hotel, The Sporting Duchess, at 414 Pearl street, until a quarter of a century ago were headquarters for the racing fraternity and politicians of the old Fourth Ward, will be buried today in St. Andrews Church in Duane.

Born in Vienna, Mrs. Westphal came to New York when she was 18 and in 1887 was reputed to have won heavily on the races. In that year she bought a string of 2-year-olds, raced at Gloucester and was reported at the time that she had won $60,000 in a single season. It was then that she opened the Paddock, and the latter day play the races and within a short time had not only lost all she had won but had a hard time saving her saloon. The latter finally went, for in 1899 she was dispossessed.

Her first, second and third husbands were policemen, and it was the death of her third husband, Westphal, who was killed trying to stop a runaway horse, that enabled her to return to the saloon business. The Police Board granted a bonus and pension for the death of her husband, and the Sporting Duchess was launched. But she lost much money and frequently said that much of it went on horses, but most of it was borrowed by policemen who forgot to repay her.

Three children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of Harry Wilkinson at Ruffalo yesterday. Explosion of kerosene with which one of the children was lighting a fire in the stove caused the blaze.

The dead are Helen, 11 years old, Willard, 9 years old, and Evelyn, 3 years old. Mrs. Wilkinson and other children were treated for burns.

WHAT "PERMIT" BILL IN ILLINOIS PROVIDES

Cities Will Give Franchises After Voters Approve Them and May Regulate Fare.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 22.—A series of transportation bills, including a terminable permit measure State-wide in effect, have been signed by Gov. Emmerson and become effective July 1. The bills were drafted by attorneys representing the City of Chicago, the various local transportation companies and a citizens' committee.

The terminable permit bill, differing from the terminable permit measure pending before Gov. Cullfield in Missouri, authorizes municipalities of the State to grant to local transportation companies franchises for unlimited periods of time or for 40 years. Heretofore cities have been limited to 20-year franchises. The bill provides that the franchise shall be terminated only when the city buys the property of the company or when the municipality names a new corporation to take over the properties. In both instances the price at which the company must sell is to be set up in the ordinance upon which the franchise is given, this price to be increased when additions are made to the capital account and diminished by depreciation of the property.

Must Go to a Referendum.
Before the franchise can become effective the ordinance in which it is embodied must be approved by a majority of voters in the city at a referendum at a general, municipal or special election.

The other bills approved permit the surface, elevated and bus lines in Chicago to merge into one corporation, and provide that a subway system may be built and paid for in several ways, including special assessments.

In a statement on the bills, the Governor said: "The measures are properly safeguarded by provisions that any ordinance drafted under them must be submitted to a vote of the people before becoming effective. Under the terms, the city has the power to regulate operation, rates and service, and the right of purchase by the city, should that be desired, is protected."

It may be seen that the Illinois permit bill differs from that in Missouri in these important particulars.

In Illinois the franchise would be granted by the cities; in Missouri by the State Public Service Commission.

The Illinois bill is State-wide in effect; the Missouri measure is limited to cities of 200,000 population, which may be interpreted to include only St. Louis.

Under the Illinois franchise must be approved by popular vote before becoming effective; in Missouri, the referendum would apply only if invoked by the people.

Either through the Norwegian Government or through the Soviet Embassy in Berlin, in resuming relations with Russia, also was discussed.

E. W. GROVE ESTATE MUST PAY FARM FEDERATION $20,000
Compromise Judgment Ends Suit Over Contract at Asheville, N. C.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
ASHEVILLE, June 22.—A compromise judgment, for $20,000, was signed by Judge Michael Schenck in Superior Court last evening whereby E. W. Grove Jr. and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., executors of the estate of E. W. Grove Sr., must pay that amount to the Farmers' Federation.

Suit was brought by the Federation in an effort to have the contract declared valid a written contract, signed by E. W. Grove Sr., in which he agreed to give $25,000 to an educational fund for the promotion of agriculture. The Federation provided an additional sum of $75,000 was raised elsewhere.

The contract Mr. Grove was said to have signed in a letter written by him on Sept. 14, 1926.

URGES REICHTAG TO BE CAUTIOUS WITH YOUNG PLAN

German Minister Warns Parliament Not to Create Internal Difficulties by Hasty Action.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 22.—Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, German Finance Minister, today made a plea to the Reichstag for restraint in consideration of the recently signed Young plan on reparations. Because of illness, neither Foreign Minister Stresemann nor Chancellor Mueller was able to appear before the Reichstag, and Dr. Hilferding spoke for the Cabinet.

"Restrain yourselves and don't create difficulties for Germany's political negotiations," he said, "by the hasty action of the Reichstag in the Finance Minister's speech. He said:

"To discuss the details of the plan is prohibited by the Young plan," was the outstanding warning in the Finance Minister's speech. He said:

"Only if we have political freedom of movement can we carry the great responsibility to the German people for ultimate decision. The German Government therefore deems it imperative to request the parties in this house to exercise restraint likewise."

Elucidating yesterday's Cabinet decision, Dr. Hilferding said: "The Young plan as at present can be viewed by the German Government solely from the viewpoint of whether it seems suitable for forming the basis of the forthcoming political negotiations. The German Government is not prepared to take the affirmative on this question. In necessary connection with this, the total liquidation of all questions hanging over from the World War must be brought about."

A Cabinet meeting presided over by Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann deliberated yesterday upon the results of the Paris reparations conference and the meeting at Madrid of the Council of the League of Nations.

The Cabinet resolved that "the Government of the Reich agrees to regard the Paris experts' plan of Young as a basis for the settlement between Governments. In necessary connection with this a solution of the remaining pending questions which arose from the World War must be sought."

British Cabinet Favors Ratification of Young Plan Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, June 22.—The Labor cabinet yesterday decided that Great Britain should ratify the Young plan for a final reparations settlement, although some of the Ministers objected to favor it, it tends to France. There were also remonstrances from the Treasury concerning the reduction of the reparations share in percentages.

The Cabinet decided to press for a London conference of the interested nations to put the Young plan into effect. The British delegation would head the British delegation. The Cabinet will await President Hoover's next move on naval disarmament. Meanwhile, it decided to ratify the Young plan as a general act of the League of Nations, thus committing Great Britain though not the dominions, to compulsory arbitration.

The procedure to be adopted, either through the Norwegian Government or through the Soviet Embassy in Berlin, in resuming relations with Russia, also was discussed.

BRITISH LAUNCH SUBMARINE; ADMIRAL PREDICTS ARMS CUT
By the Associated Press.

BARROW, England, June 21.—The launching of the submarine President at the Vickers Armstrong naval construction works yesterday was the occasion for some remarks regarding the recent Daves disarmament proposals by Rear Admiral Vernon H. S. Haggard, fourth lord.

Possibly both the navy and the armament builders face the prospect of hard times, he said after his wife had launched the undersea war vessel.

"Gen. Daves the other day had some hard things to say about naval officers and how he would not leave them to cut down armaments," said the Rear Admiral.

"Possibly he was quite wise. He says our business is to produce a yardstick whereby we are to measure the relative values of ships of the various classes and to leave it to the statesmen to decide whether the yardstick, which I think will be a far more difficult thing, for the relative needs of each nation. I think they will have a far more difficult task. However, everything points to a reduction of armaments and I think we will have to face that."

TRANSATLANTIC SPANISH FLYERS LAND AT AZORES

Primo de Rivera Makes Definite Announcement, But Details About Arrival Are Fragmentary.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, June 22.—The Spanish Trans-Atlantic Co. this afternoon broadcast messages relayed by the Lisbon wireless station from the Portuguese warship Vasco de Gama, which picked up the following message from Maj. Ramon Franco:

"We arrived at 8 a. m. and intend to resume our flight at 5 p. m. tomorrow, Sunday."

The warship added that Maj. Franco was safe in the Azores, but did not specify where.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, June 22.—Premier Primo de Rivera this evening stated that Maj. Ramon Franco and his three companions in their trans-Atlantic plane had arrived at the Azores.

He gave no further details but added that the question of the next stage of the flight depended upon the rate at which the gasoline supply would be exhausted, the flyers still having to decide whether to be made at Huelga or to continue to New York.

A Horta dispatch to the Fabra News Agency said that Franco had landed at San Miguel Bay in the Azores. The airfield authorities at Cartagena also received reports that the flyers had reached the Azores.

Direct confirmation was not available at Horta on the island of Fayal, where the flyers had expected to land. There are no direct sources of communication between Horta and San Miguel.

Plans Made at Horta for Great Reception.
Horta, Island of Fayal, the Azores, June 22.—The Spanish trans-Atlantic airplane of Maj. Ramon Franco, and his three companions was reported here late this afternoon to have landed on the island of San Miguel this morning.

San Miguel is the easternmost of the Azores Islands. The Spanish plane was at first said to have flown over San Miguel early this morning.

New came in slowly from San Miguel to Horta, where preparations for refueling Franco's plane and for a great reception to the flyers had been completed for hours.

MORROW THREATENED FOR PART IN STATE-CHURCH PACE
Ambassador, Ill in Bed, Regards Religious Instruction as Little Perturbed.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, June 22.—Ambassador Morrow, ill in bed, has received letters threatening him to him as a result of his activity in bringing to a successful climax negotiations for settlement of the Mexican religious controversy.

The Ambassador considers the letters the work of cranks and is little perturbed.

Morrow's illness developed Thursday in the form of indigestion. Thursday night he arose from bed to confer with President Porfirio Gil and was so tired yesterday that he remained abed, cancelling his engagement to deliver a commencement address at the American school.

Yesterday afternoon he conversed with Porfirio Gil by telephone about the chief executives' two conferences with the Catholic Bishops.

They gave each other credit for good intentions and took it for granted each was acting in good faith and wished only for peace.

Proceeding on this basis, both sides made concessions. The church acquiesced in the Mexican constitution of 1917, and the laws promulgated under it; and the Government promised the church would be no interference with religious worship. It also promised to interpret the religious laws as liberally as possible.

The dispute first got together by expressing each others' desire to work for the welfare of the Mexican people.

Mexico Putting Into Effect Accord With Catholic Church

Representatives of the foreign press into his office yesterday and there handed them the statement with the understanding that it came from the Presidency and the prelates.

Three Sign Statement.
The ceremony of affixing signatures to a statement of the agreement took place in Chapultepec Castle, President Porfirio Gil signed for Mexico, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, Apostolic Delegate, and Bishop Pascual Diaz, Secretary of the Episcopate, signed on behalf of the Holy See.

As a result of the signing of the peace accord, Catholic church services will be resumed all over Mexico soon. In the great cathedral in Mexico City will be sung a Te Deum. Archbishop Ruiz, acting titular head of the church in Mexico, will officiate.

Beginning today, Catholics will observe nine-day pilgrimages to the Basilica of Guadalupe, the national shrine, in a suburb of the capital.

Plans were also started for a monster manifestation of rejoicing by Catholics throughout Mexico.

Basis of Accord.
The basis of the agreement between the Vatican and the Mexican Government was set forth in a formal statement issued by President Porfirio Gil. This statement makes the following three promises on behalf of the Government:

The Catholic hierarchy will be allowed to designate those priests who are to register in compliance with Mexican laws.

Religious instruction will be permitted within the churches, but not in schools (which is specified in the Mexican Constitution).

Mexican Catholic prelates shall have the right to apply for modification of the Constitution or laws. This right is granted to all Mexican citizens already, but priests have hitherto been regarded as outside citizenship.

Morrow a Mediator.
The Mexican Government and the Vatican got together through the mediation of United States Ambassador Morrow. He labored night and day to prevail upon the disputants to accept his formula for peace first and to hold their discussions of details afterward.

He preached the gospel of good faith as the basis of negotiations. Among the Catholics there were dissenting voices and conflicting authorities. The Ambassador used his influence to obtain from the Vatican the designation of Archbishop Ruiz as apostolic delegate.

When the negotiations threatened to collapse last Friday over the Government's opposition to religious schools, Morrow stepped in. In persuading former President Calles to favor an amicable settlement, he insured a successful outcome of the negotiations.

Another important intermediary of the United States was Dr. Edmund Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University. He came here six weeks ago from Washington as an emissary of the Vatican and with the knowledge of President Hoover. He was charged with the role of uniting Catholics both within and without the episcopacy. He also acted as a liaison officer between the prelates and the foreign press. At all times he remained in close touch with Ambassador Morrow.

How They Got Together.
The disputants first got together by expressing each others' desire to work for the welfare of the Mexican people.

NONSTOP FLIGHT ACROSS U. S. BEGINS

Lee Schoenhair Leaves Los Angeles in Attempt to Set New Record.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 22.—Lee Schoenhair took off from Los Angeles today at 11:41 a. m. today (5:41 p. m. time) on a proposed nonstop flight from Los Angeles to New York, an attempt to break the continental record of 13 hours, 5 minutes and 59 seconds.

Loaded with 483 gallons of fuel, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane left the ground after almost 15 minutes and 59 seconds.

Schoenhair, who hopes to set a new record, is accompanied by Capt. W. H. Hawkes, who is to act as pilot in case of an emergency. The plane was slightly damaged when it was being taxied out of the airport.

A telegram from W. G. Walsh, Chief of Police at Fresno, Cal., advised that Schoenhair had been arrested on a bad check charge for 30 days. Information from Los Angeles was received that Schoenhair was on his way to New York, the police said they forwarded the message to authorities there.

Mexican Press Is Enthusiastic About Settlement.
By the Associated Press.

The Mexican press today hailed partial settlement of the national religious controversy, approving enthusiastically the agreement between Chapultepec and the Vatican.

El Universal said: "It amounts to a definite triumph of freedom of thought and does not represent victory for anybody but rather a logical and just erasure of lamentable differences."

The paper added the Government had consolidated its position on a foundation of material peace and prestige which the solution of the three-year-old problem had given it. It believed a new era of welfare, well earned tranquillity, and possible economic development.

Excelsior said the church and State without losing sight of the decorum of each had reached a frank and honorable accord with both convinced the controversy was due to misinterpretations.

Joy at Vatican, But Comment on Terms Withheld.
By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, June 22.—Word of settlement of the Mexican religious controversy was received by the Vatican entourage with great joy. The closest collaborators of Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, were kept in ignorance of the Pontiff's decision on the terms President Porfirio Gil and Archbishop Ruiz drew up and forwarded to him.

Unofficially it was said that the terms of the settlement at first glance seemed to indicate considerable concessions by the church in order to arrive at an agreement.

It was considered certain that Pope Pius would allow the settlement in one of his earlier audiences to pilgrims' groups who are being received in audience almost daily. Pending his comments, even the highest officials in the office of the papal secretary of state were naturally uneasy of their personal opinions on the accord.

News that the Chilean Embassy served as the agent for transmitting the Pope's reply was rumormongered with much apprehension, linking being that it showed Catholic countries of the Western Hemisphere realized they have special as well as geographical ties in common with the United States. It may well have repercussions in other spheres.

Announcement of President Porfirio Gil's statement was received in Rome too late for comment in the morning papers.

Lee Schoenhair Leaves Los Angeles in Attempt to Set New Record.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 22.—Lee Schoenhair took off here at 2:41 a. m. today (5:41 St. Louis time) on a proposed nonstop flight from Los Angeles to New York in an attempt to break the transcontinental record of 15 hours, 21 minutes and 59 seconds.

Loaded with 485 gallons of gasoline, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane left the ground after almost a complete run across the airport field and disappeared in the darkness. Schoenhair, who hopes to establish the mark held by Capt. Frank Hawks, was delayed in his take-off more than two hours when the plane was slightly damaged in a collision with another craft as it was being taxied onto the field.

A request from W. G. Walker, Chief of Police at Fresno, Cal., for the arrest, on a lost check charge, of Schoenhair was received here a few minutes after the aviator had taken off for New York.

A telegram from Walker said that Schoenhair had been sought for 20 days. Informing that Schoenhair was on his way to New York, the police said they would forward the message to authorities there.

In a telephone communication, Walker later said he did not know the exact amount of the check involved but that it was "fairly large." He said he would not ask for extradition of the flyer from New York, but would await his return to Los Angeles.

Glance seemed to indicate considerable concessions by the church in order to arrive at an agreement. It was considered certain that Pope Pius would allude to the settlement in one of his earliest allocutions to pilgrims groups which are being received in audience almost daily. Pending his comments, even the highest officials in the office of the secretary of state were naturally unwilling to proffer their personal opinions on the record.

GLASS ANSWERS BISHOP CANNON ON STOCK DEALS

Virginia Senator Says Charge That He Tried to Injure Clergyman Is Non-sense.

EXPLAINS WHY HE TOOK UP MATTER

Transactions Were Proper How Can They Damage His Character, He Asks in Statement.

By the Associated Press.

Lynchburg, Va., June 22.—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who questioned Bishop James C. Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal Church South during the last presidential campaign about his stock market speculations, has given the following statement to a representative of the New York Herald Tribune:

"I have no particular concern, political or otherwise, with Bishop Cannon's alleged stock gambling operations through the medium of an alleged disreputable bucketshop in New York City, and I am disappointed to think the drawing me into this controversy is purely gratuitous and without excuse."

"It is a fact that about 10 days before the recent presidential election certain affidavits were sent to me from New York, setting forth some of the facts which appeared in Thursday's newspaper account of Bishop Cannon's transactions. I was not a little dismayed at the facts stated and immediately notified Bishop Cannon of the charges against him. He appeared to regard the information conveyed in my dispatch and gave a rather curt answer to which I responded in kind."

"Naturally, I declined to use the charge of gambling in stocks on a matter with an obscure and allegedly unlawful bucket shop against Bishop Cannon, wiring the parties who sent me the papers that if they desired the episode to be made public, they should themselves give out the facts."

"The idea that I had any purpose to muzzle Bishop Cannon 10 days before the election will, I apprehend, be regarded by every intelligent person as a piece of nonsense. Aside from my unwillingness to be responsible for the disclosure I knew perfectly well that it would have a bad political effect and ending to me, and I would admit that he was being persecuted for opinion's sake."

"As for the disclosures by the newspapers being an attack on the bishop's character—that is no affair of mine. Moreover, I cannot comprehend how this can be. If Bishop's Cannon's stock speculations with an alleged disreputable bucket shop in New York were entirely proper and as far above criticism as the Bishop insists, how can publication of the facts be regarded as an attack on his character?"

"I have already suggested, if Bishop Cannon has done nothing that would discredit his Episcopal office, these disclosures of his stock transactions would tend to strengthen rather than to weaken his personal influence. But after all, it is nothing to me, and I would not care to discuss it further."

Prisoners Sought Fund to Buy Home for Bishop Cannon.
WASHINGTON, June 22.—About the time Bishop James Cannon, Jr. was trying his luck with the Kalle & Co. friends were inviting Methodist churches and others to contribute to a fund for a home for him.

The appeal was made on the ground that he worked hard all of his life for the church, and devoted little time to saving money for a rainy day. Senators Glass and Swanson and many others were asked to give to the cause. The house selected was on P street, Washington, and it was to be donated in the form of a testimonial. The cost to be about $25,000.

The money did not succeed. For many people considered it unwise. Asked what his home of the plan, Dr. Crawford, secretary to Bishop Cannon, said he knew of it but was not one of its sponsors and could not say what happened to it.

BOMB SPRAYS SCRAP IRON ON SIX HOMES

Explodes Outside Granite City Workshop of Non-Union Plumbing Contractor.

Windows in six Granite City homes were broken last night when a dynamite bomb exploded at the home of Steve Graff, a non-union plumbing contractor, 2615 Grand avenue, spraying homes on the next street with bolts, nuts and scraps of iron. No one was injured.

The bomb, made of a drainage tile, was placed just outside Graff's workshop, in the rear of his home. The open end of the tile apparently faced toward the next street and, when the explosion occurred at 10:20 o'clock, the load of scrap iron tore holes in two frame houses on State street and shattered 15 windows, six houses in all being struck. The damage to the workshop was slight.

Graff attributes the bombing to his non-union operations. He has had trouble before and once requested that a policeman be assigned to guard him while he worked. A touring car containing several men was sent to leave the neighborhood a short time before the explosion.

WOMAN CHASES SWINDLER AND GETS MONEY BACK
Bakery Employee Recovers $10 Man Had Got From Her by Old Envelope Trick.

A swindler who has been defrauding St. Louis women with the old envelope trick, met his match in Miss Mildred Moeller, 26 years old, an employee of the Hartman Bakery at 1015 McCausland avenue, yesterday, and was forced to give up $19 he had obtained from her.

He entered the store and asked Miss Moeller if she could give him a $20 bill for an equal amount in smaller currency. She did, but when she counted the bills he had given her, found they came to only $19. He then returned the addressed envelope into which he had apparently put the $20 bill and left the store, saying he would return with the other dollar. Becoming suspicious, Miss Moeller opened the envelope, found it empty and ran after him. Catching him at Clayton and Forest avenues, she made him return the $19, after which he ran to an automobile, in which another man was seated, and drove away.

Earlier in the day $19 was obtained by this trick from Mrs. Gus Isenmann, bakery proprietor at 4503 Manchester avenue, and a smaller similar swindle was reported to the police on Thursday.

Closed since May 8 because of alteration of the club's quarters, the dining room of the City Club will be reopened on Monday, when the annual meeting will be held at 1 p. m., following luncheon. The club is vacating the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth floors of its building and concentrating on the fourteenth and fifteenth floors, thereby reducing its expenses without limiting the facilities for its 900 members. The Missouri Hotel will occupy the vacated floors.

IRON WORKERS END STRIKE ON GRANT OF $13 A DAY PAY

Increased Wage to Be in Effect Till May 1, 1930, When $14 Scale Will Be Paid for One Year.

The strike of union iron workers, which has interrupted the building program here since May 1, was ended last night when the 700 members of the union agreed to return to work Monday at a wage of $13 a day, an increase of $1 a day over their previous scale.

Under an agreement signed by officials of the union, the Master Builders' Association and other contractor organizations, the $13 wage scale is effective until May 1, 1930, when a $14-a-day rate will be paid for an additional year. The agreement may either be renewed or terminated at the end of two years upon four months' notice.

The iron workers struck for an increase of $2 a day and tied up a number of important building projects here. Organized contractors, in published statements, declared their opposition to all wage increases, and authorized open shop operation to keep up construction. Comparatively few contractors attempted open shop operations, however.

Union building laborers, numbering 3500, and stone cutters, about 150 men, struck at the same time as the iron workers. The stonecutters capitulated after two weeks and returned to work at their old scale, $10 a day. The laborers remained off the job five weeks and obtained a flat wage scale of $7 1/2 cents a hour, effective Aug. 1. The scale represents a substantial increase for a number of the laborers, who previously worked for a varying wage scale.

The strike caused the idleness of many other building workers, not on strike, who were unable to proceed with their work due to the absence of the strikers. The iron workers, in particular, were missed on large jobs.

Projects on which work will be resumed Monday are: The $5,000,000 hotel at Kingshighway and Maryland avenue being erected by the Koplars interests; new train sheds at Union Station and other structures for the Terminal Railroad costing $1,000,000; Lenox Hotel, Ninth street and Washington avenue; Deaconess Hospital, De Paul Hospital, Mary Institute and a number of apartments and smaller buildings.

Frank Lahey, president of the iron workers' union, said men would be available for all jobs Monday. All union building workers in St. Louis work five days a week.

Ellerbrake resides at 1510 Desha street.

WOMAN SENT TO PRISON UNDER OLD U. S. REVENUE LAW

Mother of 16, Arrested by Dry Agents in Arkansas, Did Not Pay Tax as Liquor Dealer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 22.—The mother of 16 children, Mrs. Katherine Post of Altus, Ark., reared in section where the first German immigrants in this State settled years ago and made beer took her sentence without comment. However, her children were much concerned and one of them, a daughter, just before the mother was to be sent to the Federal institution, beseeched Judge Youmans to allow her to serve the term in place of her mother. The sentence attracted more attention than any other liquor case in this section. Many people are interested in Mrs. Post's behalf. One of her close relatives is a priest of the German parish at Fort Smith, Ark.

As is customary, the Court asked Mrs. Post when she came up for sentence how many children she had. She replied 16, of whom 12 are living.

"It is too bad Theodore Roosevelt is no longer living," the Judge referring to the late President's advocacy of large families. S. S. Langley, United States District Attorney who prosecuted the case, said the officers had had repeated information that Mrs. Post was violating the law by selling liquor, and finally undercover men succeeded in purchasing liquor from her.

It is understood that this liquor traffic caused Mrs. Post and her husband to leave the town and grower, to have difficulties and at one time to become estranged.

Post also was arrested but was released when Mrs. Post took the responsibility for the sale. It is also said some of her children left home on account of the liquor dealing.

Another woman, Mrs. E. A. Bridges, Fort Smith, also received a sentence for liquor dealing. She was sentenced to 18 months at the West Virginia institution. Mrs. Bridges made several sales of liquor. These were the first two women in Federal Court here to receive terms. Jail sentences of 30 to 90 days having been imposed in a few cases.

SECOND INTER-CITY POLO MATCH TODAY AND TOMORROW

Redbirds of St. Louis Country Club Handicapped Against Kansas City Team.

The second inter-city polo match of the season will be played today and tomorrow on the St. Louis Country Club field, Price and Ladue roads, between the club's Redbirds and the Kansas City Country Club.

As customary since the club embarked upon its effort in 1926 to make St. Louis a polo town, non-members may drive to the field and park in the game from their parked automobiles. The admission fee will be $1 for a driver and car plus 50 cents for each additional adult. The games begin at 3:30 p. m. today and tomorrow.

Exciting contests are expected, since the St. Louis team will play against a handicap of one goal and the Kansas City team is considered stronger than indicated by a handicap rating.

ADMITS CONCEALING ASSETS AT HOMES OF FRIENDS

Johnston City, Ill., Bankrupt Tries to Assume Full Responsibility in U. S. Court.

Trial of Emil Moroni, bankrupt storekeeper of Johnston City, Ill., and 11 other persons, charged with conspiracy to conceal assets from Moroni's creditors, will be conducted in Federal Court in East St. Louis today.

Moroni already is under three concurrent 4-year prison terms, having pled guilty of concealment of the assets, use of the mails to defraud in sending out false financial statements, and possession of spurious revenue stamps.

Admitting that he concealed 27 truck loads of merchandise at the homes and business establishments of various of his co-defendants, Moroni yesterday assumed full responsibility for the attempted fraud and asserted the parties who stored the goods for him did not know he was bankrupt. Similar testimony was given by some of the co-defendants.

A sudden witness, Moroni admitted that he had dealt in whisky and had testified falsely at a creditors' hearing. His liabilities total $26,000. His assets, including the concealed merchandise which was recovered, approximate $23,000.

VILLAGE SCHOOLS INSURED AGAINST FALLING PLANES

Two Valley Stream (L. I.) Buildings Protected to Extent of $40,000—Air Field Near.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Franklin avenue, P. S. 25, school of the village of Valley Stream, L. I., have been protected to the extent of $40,000 in insurance against falling airplanes by the Board of Education. The new Curtiss-Valley Stream field of the Curtiss flying service is nearby.

CHANGES IN WOMEN'S STYLES BANKRUPT MILLINERY FIRM

"Wise Men Getting Out of Business," Says Treasurer of Judge-Blase Co.

Capriciousness in women's millinery styles contributed to the failure of the $50,000 Judge-Blase Hat Co., which was declared bankrupt May 1, Ernst Bek, treasurer, told Referee George Vesting yesterday.

"The hat business is not what it used to be," declared Bek, who has been a milliner for 35 years. "Women used to buy hats with a lot of flowers and feathers, but now they wear just small pieces of felt. Wise men are getting out of the business."

The company, organized two years ago with an authorized capital of $50,000, of which $40,000 was paid in, lost $13,000 last year on a gross business of about $65,000, according to Bek. Of the paid capital, $4500 was in cash, the remainder representing merchandise and machinery used in preceding businesses.

Sylvester C. Judge, president, said the company had never been profitable, even during the last 14 months of its existence its officers refrained from drawing salaries.

WISCONSIN SENATE VOTES FOR REPEAL OF 42 PCT. LOAN LAW

Lower House Expected to Concur; Statute Called "Legalized Banditry."

MADISON, Wis., June 22.—The State Senate, by a vote of 23 to 5, has passed the Smith bill repealing Wisconsin's small loan law passed by the Legislature two years ago. It is regarded as likely that the assembly will also vote for repeal.

A sharp fight took place on the bill. Lieutenant-Governor Huber referred to it as "legalized banditry," referring to the late President's advocacy of large families. S. S. Langley, United States District Attorney who prosecuted the case, said the officers had had repeated information that Mrs. Post was violating the law by selling liquor, and finally undercover men succeeded in purchasing liquor from her.

HABITUAL CRIMINAL CHARGE AGAINST FORMER CONVICT

First Indictment Under New Policy of Circuit Attorney Miller.

The first information to be issued under the habitual criminal act, since the recent announcement by Circuit Attorney Miller that this statute would be invoked in the prosecution of all former convicts, was issued yesterday against Joseph McNamara, 32 years old, who recently finished a three-year term in Leavenworth prison for theft from an interstate shipment.

McNamara was arrested Thursday when he attempted to sell a motor cycle which had been stolen the night before at Twentieth and Eugene street.

ANDERSON, Ind., June 22.—Three boys, ranging from 7 to 11 years old, were killed here yesterday, when a cave-in on one side of an open sewer trench buried them alive.

The dead: Eugene Snyder, 11; Frederick Walter Haney, 7, and Charles William Jones, 8. Harold Roswell, 10, a coroner, said he thought the Haney boy was crushed to death while the other two were smothered. The trench was 10 feet deep.

WASHINGTON U. DROPS STADIUM TEMPORARILY

Subscriptions to Be Returned—Unable to Reach Agreement With University City.

Plans for construction of Washington University's proposed $750,000 stadium at the northwest corner of the university grounds have been "temporarily abandoned," as the result of a controversy with University City over erection of the structure, Joseph Zumbelen, treasurer of the university announced today.

Funds subscribed by alumni for the stadium would be returned, he said, and as a temporary measure, 10,000 or 12,000 additional seats would be erected in Francis Field in time for the fall football schedule.

"When I say 'temporarily abandoned,' I mean for several years at least," Zumbelen said. "I do not know how much money has been subscribed, but $6000 in cash has actually been paid in. This will be returned."

"Our football schedule this fall is such that we must have additional seats. We had reached a point where it was too late to have the stadium ready and still be in compliance with the law."

When plans for the stadium, to seat 25,000 persons, were announced in May, 1928, University City residents announced their opposition, saying that automobiles driven to football games would be parked on every street in the municipality. Last January an ordinance forbidding the erection of any structure to seat more than 10,000 was passed by the University City Board of Aldermen.

Today Mayor Ruth of University City told a reporter that he thought an agreement between the city and the university was near. He said the university had agreed to erect an ornamental facade at the west end of the stadium and to hire a traffic engineer to solve the parking problem. Zumbelen replied that the university had made the offers some months ago and that they had been rejected by the city officials at that time.

ST. LOUISANS, RETIRED, KILLS HIMSELF NEAR HILLSBORO

Relatives There Did Not Know of Arrival of T. W. Armstrong, Former Contractor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HILLSBORO, Ill., June 22.—The body of Thomas W. Armstrong, 68 years old, a retired plumbing contractor, of 6575A Cabanne avenue, St. Louis, was found in Shal Creek near Hillsboro this morning. A note found in his pocket stated that he intended to drown himself and gave instructions for finding his body.

Armstrong formerly resided here but moved 20 years ago to Springfield, Mo., where he operated a plumbing shop. Ten years ago he retired and moved to St. Louis, making occasional visits to his brother, Samuel Armstrong, here. Relatives had not expected a visit at this time and did not know he was here when the body was found.

Story of Hospital Disaster Denied.

HONGKONG, June 22.—Reports received in London yesterday that there was a disastrous explosion in the Eastbund Hospital at Canton are erroneous. The reports apparently had their origin in the explosion of ammunition dump near a Chinese military hospital in which five workmen were killed.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with mere political news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Terminable Permits Fight.

TO THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ONCE more the Post-Dispatch lives up to the platform of its founder to oppose privileged classes, to remain devoted to the public welfare and never to be afraid to attack wrong. Whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty. It seems unbelievable that the citizens of St. Louis would voluntarily submit to the abrogation of the beneficent principle of the limited franchise incorporated in their City Charter in favor of the indeterminate franchise proposed in the falsely called Terminable Permits Bill. This title is a falsification. Moreover, it is a deliberate one, as shown by your citation of Mr. Kelker's proposal to change the original accurate phrase "indeterminate permit" to "terminable permit"—which, as Counselor Muench said, "might have a better sound in the Legislature."

As I read the report of Wednesday's hearing before the Governor, I feel that the stand you have taken is justified. The Governor's searching questions were not convincing. This "terminable permit" simply enables a financial group to "make good." The issue is naively put by Mr. Rolla Wells when he contends for the "proper security" for those who choose to invest in the street railway corporation—as if this were not a speculative venture! Public welfare is subordinated to private gain.

It is for the citizens of St. Louis to decide whether they will annul the 50-year franchise provided for in their charter, and substitute an indeterminate franchise, as this bill proposes. If they do, they will be running counter to the progressive opinion of today, which seeks to safeguard public rights and the public welfare against the encroachments of private adventure.

PERCIVAL CHUBB.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WANT to congratulate you for the effort you are making to keep Gov. Caulfield from approving the Terminable Permits Bill.
JOS. J. CHAPPEE.

Wow!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YES, I admit malice dripped from every jot and tittle of my jolly letter to the Post-Dispatch of recent date. I do hate the Italians and Irish, and with damned good reason. I was born in Ireland and spent my girlhood in Italy. Did you ever drive a Model T through Killarney's lakes and falls? It's about the same as pushing a wheelbarrow through the depths of the Cambrian fen. As for Italy, Ovid himself said it forever: "You may sprinkle formaldehyde on as you will, but the smells of old Naples will cling round it still." But the Tonys and Pats have no monopoly on my venom. I've got poison enough to go all the way around. The bloody Britisher, the French frog, the spend-thrift German, the dapper Russian, the pink-and-white Greek, the gay Montagnard, and every swarthy Scandinavian in the big league—I hate 'em all! That's the kind of a 100 per cent patriotic dog I am.
JUNJUS.

Now We Are Told How to Walk.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AFTER regulating by law what one may safely speak or write and what one can drink, now our walking is to be governed by city legislation.
Pretty soon a married man will have to go to the city hall and get some official to grant him a permit to kiss his wife.

Oh, the wisdom and protecting care that comes to us from a city administration elected on the slogan "One good term deserves another." We humble, plain, plodding citizens have not fathomed.

PHILLAN.

Where to Find the Cops.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I THOUGHT it was drug stores that were being robbed and needed protection, but I must have been wrong. It is the soft drink parlors that are getting police aid. When I look down my bar I could call the roll for the district.
When a robbery has been committed, and the call box lights are flashing, with no one to answer them, three guesses as to where the boys in blue are hiding. If they never get 100 per cent efficiency no policeman, in uniform or likewise, should be allowed in a saloon. Unless a call has gone to the station for aid.

This would do away with all the cigarette cadging and loafing.
DISGUSTED.

For More Park Benches.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AS a voter and a resident of St. Louis for 50 years I have never seen the parks of St. Louis as much in need of benches as they are at the present time. Three benches in one park, five benches in another park, and none in another. It is necessary to have these benches made in France, Germany or Italy. This makes the showing very bad for visitors coming from small burgs such as Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, Evansville and many other refined places of our universe.
NORTH ST. LOUIS.

AN UNBELIEVABLE TALE.

Two days ago Mrs. Katherine Post, 56 years old, mother of 16 children, passed through St. Louis from Arkansas on her way to a Federal prison in West Virginia. She was in the custody of a United States Marshal, and had been convicted of selling whisky.

Mrs. Post is the wife of a fruit grower living near Altus, Ark. Their home is some 45 miles from Fort Smith. Five of her children are under 18 years of age and living at home. A woman remarkably typical of that sturdy stock which pioneered the United States. Mrs. Post made a profound impression upon all those at the station who witnessed this amazing American tragedy. The institution to which she is going is the Federal Industrial House of Correction. It is at Alderson, W. Va. Conveying this country woman thence, the majestic United States Government provided an entourage of one United States Marshal and the Marshal's mother as matron.

It was charged against slavery in those stirring days before the Civil War that it did more than sell human beings into servitude. It tore the mother from her children, and the husband from the wife. The humane instincts of those who opposed slavery were so fired by these incredible cruelties that they became at length a flaming sword. Yet here we have duplicated in another time those very abominations for which slavery was destroyed. Presumably those who put prohibition above the humanities, as in another time there were those who put slavery above the humanities, can justify the transportation of this woman from Arkansas to West Virginia.

It is impossible for the Post-Dispatch to justify it, as it was impossible for Mr. Lincoln, and all those who at last supported him, to justify the cruelties of slavery. If there is a difference between the one thing and the other it is that in the one case the victims of those atrocities were black and this woman is white. There is no moral difference. Mrs. Post pleaded guilty to the charge of making and selling whisky. The question of her guilt is therefore not debatable. Nor do we care to debate this wretched and disadvantaged woman's perspective of right and wrong.

What we are asking is how a country which one time purged itself of an institution under which such cruelties were practiced can justify itself in the perpetuation of an institution under which these identical cruelties are duplicated.

It is enough to make the people of the United States, who have never been entirely bereft of reason, sit down and reason with themselves.

Mr. Lincoln said: "If slavery is not wrong, then nothing is wrong."

To paraphrase that powerful pronouncement, if transporting this woman, for such a petty offense, from her country home down in the Arkansas woods to a Federal prison in West Virginia, tearing her away from her family—if that is not wrong, then nothing is wrong.

"ALWAYS REMAIN DEVOTED TO THE PUBLIC WELFARE."

—From the Post-Dispatch Platform.

At Gov. Caulfield's public hearing on the "terminable permits" bill, W. T. Collins of 6226 Oakland avenue read a newspaper editorial pointing out that the Public Service Commission has given the street car company a valuation on which to compute fares of $63,500,000, on property for which the company paid $49,100,000. Mr. Collins said:

"If this editorial is true, and I think it is, the Public Service Co. is trying to collect 7 per cent on $13,000,000 at the expense of the street car riders. . . . I see here an organized force in favor of this proposition, which you will always find when anything of this kind is up for discussion, but the street car riders who are vitally concerned are busy where they are employed and cannot afford to lose a day's wages to come here and be heard. Of course, I know some here will say that was a Post-Dispatch editorial that I just read. Yes, it was, and I have found, after 51 years' residence in St. Louis, that the Post-Dispatch usually knows what it is talking about. God help the poor public if it were not for newspapers like the Post-Dispatch."

Prof. Meyer doesn't have to tell us that two tones can be heard at once. We have just heard them in the hearing on the terminable permits bill, where the voice of Jake Newman could distinctly be heard in the voices of city officials.

HIGHWAY LOITERING.

The first man has been fined—$5 for 15 miles an hour—in the Indiana campaign against blocking of the highways by slow drivers. Every driver who uses his automobile daily for the prime purpose of getting somewhere and uses it sometimes for recreation on Sunday, when all the once-a-week drivers are out, is quite acquainted with this nuisance. Some other states have adopted measures to abate it, not merely as a nuisance, but as a definite and formidable traffic hazard.

Pennsylvania highway police, for example, halt loiterers off the concrete and allow the line of traffic which has been held up to proceed. Each roadway of a Pittsburgh boulevard, which is wide enough to allow four lines of traffic, is divided by a yellow line, and the loiterer at each corner is confronted with a huge sign, "Keep to the right. Give faster vehicles a chance." Periodically Pennsylvania automobiles and drivers are examined to eliminate those unsafe at reasonable speeds.

Why the loiterer is dangerous was reasoned out in an article by the Pennsylvania Register of Vehicles in the Saturday Evening Post this spring. Somewhere in the mile or so of automobiles which the loiterer holds up are drivers whose time is not unlimited. They attempt to get around the obstacle. Sometimes they are unable to get back into the line when another machine comes from the opposite direction. They go into the ditch, while the loiterer plugs on his way, serene in the fatuous belief that he is driving carefully. There are other reasons why the loiterer is dangerous—reasons whereby every seasoned driver can tell when he is approaching a large city—and especially in this section of the country, if that city is St. Louis. The loiterer, as a fact of common observation, is matched by only one class, the typical, rattle-brained joy rider, in his disregard of the three essentials. These may be set down as follows:

1. Keep to the right.
2. In traffic, wait for your chance—don't fudge.
3. When you get your chance, take it.

A CURE FOR THE "SHUFFLE."

Philip P. Nickel of St. Louis was convicted of grand larceny on March 2, 1925. He appealed to the Supreme Court and was released on a $5000 bond. On June 25, 1925—one year, three months and 23 days later—the Supreme Court dismissed the appeal. That meant that Nickel should begin serving his sentence. He did not. He continued at liberty. And he might still be at liberty, might never, indeed, have spent a day in prison, if the prosecuting witness had not called Circuit Attorney Miller's attention to the matter. Nickel was arrested on order of the Circuit Attorney and a commitment issued for his imprisonment.

Circuit Attorney Miller did not stop there. He asked the Attorney-General's department to check up on St. Louis criminal appeal cases and to take such action as would prevent other defendants from escaping punishment through this legal lapse described as "the Supreme Court shuffle."

The Attorney-General's office has explained the procedure. When an appeal is denied a court mandate is sent to the Clerk of the St. Louis Court for Criminal Causes. It is the Clerk's duty to file the mandate, advise the Court of the action and deliver a commitment to the Sheriff, who arrests his man. If the Sheriff is unable to find him he reports that fact to the Court and prosecuting officer, when action is in order for the forfeiture of the bond.

The Attorney-General's office holds that its duty ends when it forwards the Supreme Court's mandate of dismissal to the Clerk of the St. Louis court. Responsibility then shifts back to the local court and the Circuit Attorney's office.

The explanation is plausible. Nevertheless, the machinery or practice in this connection is admittedly faulty, as evidenced in the case of Nickel, who might have gone unwhipped of justice altogether except for the unofficial initiative of a witness. The practice could effectively be improved, it seems to us, by having a duplicate notice of the Supreme Court mandate sent to the Circuit Attorney's office. That would not be burdensome on the Attorney-General's office, and it would eliminate this twilight area of inaction known as the "shuffle." It would help, too, if criminal appeals could be passed on in something less than a year and four months.

Of course, the efficiency of legal machinery is necessarily dependent in great measure on official vigilance and energy, such as we now have in the person of the present Circuit Attorney. Mr. Miller's prompt action in the case of Nickel and his request for a review of criminal appeal cases are assurance that the A. W. O. L.'s of the penitentiary—if there are any more of them—will be rounded up. To that end the Attorney-General's office and the Supreme Court will necessarily be eager to co-operate.

The straphangers have only one criticism to make of Gov. Caulfield's line of questioning at his public hearing on the "terminable permits" bill. He failed to ask the proponents of a perpetual franchise for the local Tonerville trolley system whether any of them rode on the street cars.

THEY WIN, AS USUAL, IN ILLINOIS.

The St. Louis chapter of F. I. P. (Franchises in Perpetuity), may be heartened, perhaps, by the news from Illinois. Governor Emmerson has signed the terminable permits bill. He is satisfied that the public interest is properly safeguarded, and Mr. Insull, who somewhat suspect, is satisfied that the utility interests are properly safeguarded, and everybody in Illinois is happy.

In Illinois they are easily "happyfied"—if we may mint a word for the occasion. They love the master minds of their public utilities. When Mr. Insull, for example, chose Col. Smith for United States Senator did not Illinois rally around that candidate with all the plumes of goodness and all the banners of reform? Right-o. And how many times did they elect Len Small Governor? And the present executive, Mr. Emmerson, will never be forgotten, we are sure, as one of the distributing agencies of the Lowden fund which enabled Missouri to be represented at that 1920 convention by the "Gold Dust Twins."

Yes, Illinois is a wonderfully governed State. For the public utilities it is the "Fortunate Isle," it is the lotus land where it is always afternoon, it is just this side of paradise, it is, as the highbrows say, a cinch. Maine is good, but Illinois is perfect.

Alfred is dead, and his soul does not go marching on in Illinois.

Most doctors will likely be grateful to have the news point out that the Ohio professor who murdered the co-ed is a horse doctor.

SUMMER EXERCISE.

Arthur A. McGovern, physical director and trainer, adviser to such fellows as Johnny Farrell and Gene Saracen, comments upon summer exercise for the man and woman "engaged in sedentary jobs the year round," and so commenting doesn't mince words. "This business," he says, "of getting on a tennis court and playing until your breath is gone and the beating of your heart can be heard across the court is foolish indulgence."

As for the weekend, "it should be a period of renewal for the nervous system as well as the body. Instead, it has come to mean two days of strenuous, unaccustomed exercise." For "remember, you are no big sinew-and-muscle man. Your blood pressure and nervous system are adjusted to a sedentary life. And golf becomes a question 'of using golf, or letting golf use you.' Then comes the bomb: 'For true relaxation, there is nothing better than a week-end at home.'"

Well, most of the golfers and tennis players won't be satisfied with a week-end at home, and we can see their point. But there remains a wealth of that unpopular information, good advice, in the rest of Mr. McGovern's commentary. If the "sedentary" workers would enter into exercise with the lack of egotism of the small boy in a corner lot baseball game, if they played for the fun of it alone, they'd be considerably better off, mentally, morally and physically.

The New Republic wants to know if the farmer has been relieved. We think he is relieved to have the conversation turn to somebody else.

MOTHER OF 16 IN CITY ON WAY TO PRISON

Mrs. Katherine Post to Serve 18 Months for Selling Whisky.

Mrs. Katherine Post, 56 years old, Altus, Ark., passed through St. Louis today on her way to the Federal Industrial House of Correction at Alderson, W. Va., to serve an 18 months' term for selling whisky. She is the mother of 16 children, five of whom are under 18 years old and are living at home.

Mrs. Post is in the custody of United States Marshal Cooper Huddell, Fort Smith, and Huddell's mother as matron, changed trains at Union Station. She had pleaded guilty of a first offense under the Volstead act at Fort Smith last week.

The wife of a fruit farmer, Joseph Post, 45 miles from Fort Smith, Mrs. Post told a Post-Dispatch reporter that repeated crop failures during recent years had tempted her to sell two quarts of whisky from a homemade stock in the hope of obtaining money to help educate her children.

WAS SLAVERY EVER WORSE THAN THIS?

Our Foolish Motor Laws

Most towns and cities have speed limits of 20 to 25 miles an hour, while in open country the legal limit is usually 30 to 35; these restrictions are disregarded by nearly all motorists, and constitute another demonstration of our law-craziness; in an era of high-speed highways and swift automobiles, our speed laws are anachronistic.

From Collier's.

MOST of our motor laws are disregarded because they are unfit to be obeyed. We insist on keeping ancient and outlived ideas in regulations designed to control present-day machines. Inevitably the motor laws fall into contemptuous disuse.

Automobile manufacturing has made tremendous progress during the last few years. Road builders have kept pace with the motor makers. Only the laws have lagged.

The consequence is that we are giving another magnificent demonstration of our contempt for the laws we insist upon making and retaining. In the field of motor transportation once more we hold to statutes and ordinances which no one obeys and which not even the legislators themselves have the slightest intention of obeying. We seem to think that there is some magic virtue in making impossible rules. As a nation we are law crazy.

Most towns and cities have ordinances limiting the speed of automobiles to 20 or 25 miles an hour. Some retain the old 15-mile limit. In the open country in most states the legal limit is 30 or 35 miles an hour.

Very few obey these ordinances and laws. Automobiles are designed for much faster speeds. Every car now being manufactured is built to be driven safely at far higher speeds. Even the cheapest cars are planned for maximum speeds of 60 miles an hour or more. More expensive cars are designed to run as high as 100 miles an hour.

A car built to go no faster than the law allows could not be sold in this country. We demand laws forbidding us to drive faster than 30 or 35 miles an hour and we demand cars capable of being driven safely 60 an hour or better.

Then we lay down concrete highways which invite speed and make it safe. At the same election we approve bonds for the construction of high-speed thoroughfares and we choose legislators who pass laws telling us not to get the full use out of the roads we have built. We must have contradiction between our laws and our habits.

In those states in which the Legislatures have met this year bills intended to modernize the motor laws were introduced. Most of the bills were voted down.

The New York Assembly voted, strangely, against a bill which would increase the legal speed on main highways from 20 to 40 miles an hour.

The legislators who opposed the bill said that an increase in speed would mean an increase in deaths.

The facts are otherwise, as studies made for the Department of Commerce when President Hoover was its secretary showed plainly enough. Reckless driving and incompetent driving are unsafe at any speed. The fast driver is often the safest driver because he is the most skillful and the most alert.

The net result of our foolish motor laws is that they are tacitly ignored. On any main highway in every state the average motorist drives more than 35 miles an hour. At the present time most drivers move at rates between 35 and 45 miles an hour in the open country.

In towns and cities the gulf between law and custom is equally wide. On a crowded main street or on a street near a school 20 miles an hour may be too fast. On boulevards and in outlying sections millions of people drive 25, 30 and 35 miles an hour safely.

Nearly every driver continually breaks the law. Most of the time this violation is overlooked by the police. Too often it is not. Then, inevitably, unjust arrests or, worse, grafting by the traffic officer occurs.

We cannot expect honest government so long as we tell the police to enforce laws which we don't intend to obey.

The remedy is simple but it must be prescribed by engineers and not by lawyers. Accidents and killings are appalling but they have not been reduced by laws which motorists won't observe.

Safety in motoring will be attained by the application of the same methods which have made railroad travel safe. Nobody tells a locomotive engineer that he must not travel 60 miles an hour, or 30 miles an hour for that matter. What he is told is that he must proceed at a safe speed. But as he values his job he must protect the property and the lives entrusted to his care.

Ultimately we must arrive at some such control of motor traffic. Such states as Connecticut and Michigan are already blazing the way.

If laws limiting automobilists to slow speeds would save lives and eliminate accidents, they would be justified. Expedience has shown, however, that safety must be sought in other ways.

TRADER HORN IN DISGUISE.

ONE of our favorite theories is that Miss Joan Lowell, the author of "The Cradle of the Deep," is Trader Horn without the beard.

BIGGER THAN MA'S AND WHY.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE reason the diamond daughter is wearing is so much bigger than the one in mother's ring is because they didn't sell engagement rings on the installment plan when father was courting mother.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 21.

FOR the second time George W. Wickersham has been summoned by a President of the United States to quit his private practice and render public service.

William Howard Taft picked him to be Attorney-General under his administration. Wickersham was charged with removal of the Sherman anti-trust law was enforced.

Many and severe were the criticisms hurled at him during the four years he headed the Department of Justice. Taft left the White House as disappointed as Wickersham as the pride of his administration.

"I venture just a thought," Taft said, "that if the incoming President could put his hand on as certainly a successful attorney-General as I have had he would greatly rejoice."

AND now, some 17 years later, President Hoover has called upon George W. Wickersham to perform one of the most important tasks that confronts his administration: find a method whereby the laws of the United States may be better enforced.

Over on Vermont avenue, in the Department of Justice, there yet remain men who were associated with Wickersham when he was Attorney-General. To them they agree that the President could make no better choice of a chairman of law enforcement commission.

They say Wickersham's judicial temperament makes him especially suited for the kind of a task President Hoover has put upon him. Added to this is the fact that he has been essentially a student all of his life.

His unfailing courtesy and kindness even the lowliest employee of the Department of Justice is remembered there. Old-timers at the department cite many instances when Wickersham endeavored to his subordinates by taking time to listen to the little things.

He was thoroughly liked and admired by everyone with whom he came in contact.

WICKERSHAM is one of the few Attorneys-Generals who appeared in court to argue before the Supreme Court.

He found it possible to represent the Government personally in a case called One of his chief regrets was that his other duties prevented him from appearing as often as he would have wished.

He is of English-quaker ancestry. His mother died at his birth.

At the age of 15 he entered the school of civil engineering at Lehigh University, and also attended Harvard. Upon graduation from the latter institution he practiced law in Philadelphia and New York and named him to his cabinet.

He was a member of President Wickersham's industrial conference board and the Committee on Codification of Law. The latter organization of its government.

Wickersham also is a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania and the Carnegie Institute.

AMERICAN ANIMALS. Written

and Illustrated by David Newell.

(P. F. Voland Co., Joliet, Ill.)

It is hardly likely that anyone who reads "Cougars and Cowboys" which appeared about two years ago, has forgotten David

Newell. One does not readily forget a man whose idea of sport is to climb a tree after a husky cougar and actually take the protestant alive with a deftly handled! It's not exactly the sort of thing that everybody does.

That was only one of various adventures with wild animals that

David Newell shared with delighted readers in the volume mentioned,

and he did it in the best campfire

manner of true sportsman.

Though Mr. Newell is to be rated essentially as a professional writer

and artist, since he makes his living as such—and he is decidedly exceptional in either capacity—one really isn't a professional at all, and when one talks with him about his many experiences

one knows that he is in fact an amateur of living who writes and draws by way of completing the work of the experience; and it's good to meet a writer and artist who is neither "literary" nor "artistic."

He not only genuinely human and alive.

Mr. Newell's latest book, "American Animals," is that rare thing,

a truly excellent juvenile. Out of his wide experience with wild animals, both as a sportsman and an amateur, he has put a book together which is not only a treat

for the young, but also a most information into the book, and out of its humanness and skill he has made it delightful. In clever rhyme

and picture he has described the appearance, character and habits of the animals of our continent.

Hussmann Ligonier Records Advance While Wagner Electric Stock Shows Decline.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, June 22.—Hussmann-Ligonier and Brown Shoe sold higher, National Candy, Lantier Machine, Stix, Baer & Fuller, Bendley and Mercantile Commerce were unchanged in prices and Wagner Electric with Scullin Steel preference recorded losses at the closing session of the week on the local board.

Before the close, some candy stock sold 1/2 point lower.

Local Business and Financial Items

(Paragraphs for publication in this column should be addressed to the Financial Editor.)

The Missouri Public Service Commission today authorized the Union Electric Co. to purchase 35 shares of common stock of the Central Mississippi Valley Electric properties for $750. The Union Electric had previously acquired all the common stock of the concern except the 35 shares.

John E. Schlichter, C. J. Dillon and J. H. Wolken are now associated with Geo. M. Forman & Co. sales force.

While the Huttig Sash and Door Co. quarterly preferred dividend will be payable on July 1, the common quarterly dividend dates have been changed. It was announced earlier in the year that dividend dates would be November, February, May and August.

Stock Exchange Topics

NEW YORK, June 22.—Interest in the railway shares showed a tendency to broaden out during the short session on the Stock Exchange. The greater popularity of the carriers, which came previously to prominence late yesterday is undoubtedly predicated in a large measure on the expectation that the May operating statements which should be available in substantial numbers next week will make a relatively good showing. On the basis of weekly carloading reports an improved showing would appear likely, but the market's early statements counting to hand today with Chesapeake & Ohio the largest road in the budget, seemed to indicate that the roads were employing a more liberal policy in the matter of expenditures charged against earnings. In other words, while gross for the month showed some measure of increase, net returns obtained by the most important lines slightly under May of last year.

Directors of Anaconda Copper Mining Co. will meet for the purpose of inaugurating dividends on the new common capitalization on Tuesday. General opinion is that the rate on the new stock total will be continued on the $7 basis which has been maintained since the offering of the additional stock subscribed for earlier in the week. The point is made that funds derived from that offering will be used to extinguish the funded debt of the company itself, amounting to $1,000,000, which has a large loan involving a substantial sinking fund. The net result is that common stock per share earnings will not be greatly changed, and with present conditions arguing for satisfactory earnings current aggressive buying is based on belief that the present dividend rate will be maintained.

The mid-year settlement period which was looked forward to rather apprehensively a few weeks ago, is now virtually at hand. Banks during the coming week will have to complete preparations for handling the shift in funds which will come about a week hence. But Wall Street is much less nervous over possible disturbance to the money market as a result of this turnover than it was a month or six weeks ago. Several things have happened to allay apprehension to some extent, yet it would be no more than natural for the market to display some firmness as the time for such settlements draws near. The heavy liquidation last month in the speculative market was helpful to the situation.

Expect Nearly 500,000 English Pounds.

NEW YORK, June 22.—E. J. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., returning from a six-week tour of the continent, said that the company's foreign activities, and that from previous reports, the Ford Motor Co. would produce nearly 500,000 cars in 1929, and that the total would reach 2,000,000 in another year, estimated throughout the year.

Dividend of 25 Cents.

Directors of the St. Louis Bank Building, which was organized in 1925, declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock of the building, payable July 1, 1929, to stockholders of record at the close of business June 20, 1929.

Report on Failures.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Business failures in the city, based on the past week's record, showed a decrease of 42 for the week ending June 15, 1929, as compared with 47 for the corresponding week last year.

SHARES SOLD NEW YORK, June 22

Total sales for the week ended June 22, 1929, 1,479,880 shares, compared with 1,310,000 a week ago, and 721,200 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 1,479,880 shares, compared with 1,310,000 a year ago and 281,000,000 two years ago.

M'EVERLY BEATS TANNERY IN JEFFERSON STAKE RACE

By Melvin D. Fulcher

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

FAIRMOUNT PARK, June 22.

One of the best programs of the meeting was offered Fairmount racetrack this afternoon with the Jefferson Hotel stakes for 2-year-olds the feature.

The presence of Tannery in the stake event caused an unusual amount of interest to be centered in that race.

The crowd, which was estimated at close to 6,000 when the first race was run, grew in size as the afternoon advanced.

Sam Pass Wins Opener.

The program opened with a maiden 2-year-old race at five and a half furlongs, which was won by Sam Pass, which had been knocking at the door on several occasions.

He ran as if the best, coming away in the stretch and winning with something left.

Perjury was second and Helen Bond, a good-looking and a first time starter from the Baker stable, third.

Harold Orment set the early pace and showed a lot of speed, but stopped badly.

Good Prices in Second.

Frank Hawley, coming from behind in the stretch, overhauled the leaders in the final stages of the second race to win going away by a short margin, with Glee second and Chicola third.

The track was slow following a heavy drizzling it had received from the water was poured on this forenoon and the time was likewise slow.

Thistle Beauty and Blue Blood set the early pace but both tired in the last quarter.

Birth of Victory, who played at the last minute, loomed up at the far turn, but stopped and Sweeps, the favorite, was never an actual contender.

The winner paid $18.42 and the second horse, Glee, paid $22.98 to place.

A Fast Six Furlongs.

Running in her usual honest manner, Miss Rosedale, the handy racer from the Lewis and Kemp Stable, won the third over some high class platers, going six furlongs.

The bay mare went to the front at the start and setting a fast pace, withstood repeated challenges from Hypnotism to win by a length, with Hypnotism second and Witchmount third.

Miss Rosedale paid $10.04 to win and Hypnotism, the second horse, paid $11.02 to place and Witchmount, the third horse, paid $10.56 to show.

The time of the race was very fast considering the slow condition of the track.

Miss Rosedale ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5.

HOWLEYMEN BATTED LYONS HARD; SCHULTE IN GAME

By James M. Gould

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 22.—The Browns defeated the White Sox this afternoon in the third of their four-game series. The series now stands Browns 2, White Sox 1.

The score was 11 to 3.

Fred Schulte went back to center field and batted fourth with Lou Blue again at the top of the order.

Saturday and good weather brought out only 3,000 fans.

Naillin and Dineen were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—WHITE SOX.—Metzler walked. Shires lined to Kress. Hoffman filed to Schulte. Watwood singled to left. Metzler stopping at second. Kamm walked, filling the bases. Cissell forced Kamm. Kress to Metello.

BROWNS—Blue celebrated his return to the top of the batting order by hitting into the right field seats for a home run. Badgro broke in as a regular with a single to right. Manush fouled to Berg. Schulte singled off Lyons' glove. Badgro stopping at second. Kress singled to right center, scoring Badgro and putting Schulte on third. Schulte scored on O'Rourke's sacrifice fly to Watwood. Metello singled to right center, sending Kress to third. Ferrell drove deep to Metzler. THREE RUNS.

SECOND INNING—Kerr fouled to O'Rourke. Berg rolled out to Metello. Lyons walked. Metzler doubled to left, scoring Lyons from first. Shires grounded to Blue. ONE RUN.

BROWNS—Collins walked. Blue also walked. Badgro sacrificed, and when Lyons trying for a force out of Collins at third, threw wild. Collins scored. Blue reached third and Badgro second. Blue scored and Badgro went to third. On Manush's sacrifice fly to Watwood, Schulte walked. Kress fouled to Kamm. Watwood went to third. Cissell hit into a double play, Metello to Kress to Blue.

CORNELL RATED AS DARK HORSE IN INTERCOLLEGIATE ROWING REGATTA

By the Associated Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—Columbia and California are favorites for the four-mile course on the Hudson River at the thirty-second annual renewal of the intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta Monday. Nine crews will participate.

The situation this year is like that of last year with California and Columbia favored over the field. Last year, the Golden Bears from the Pacific Coast swept down the course stroked by the mighty Pete Donlon, to nose out Columbia and set a record of 18:35 4-5 for four miles, lowering the mark of 18:53 1-5 set by a mighty Cornell crew in 1921. So furious was the pace of the Golden Bears that it carried both Columbia and Washington to the finish line under the former record. Columbia, stroked by Eric Lambert, trailed the Californians by only three seconds.

California went on from that triumph to greater ones at the Olympic games in Holland where it won world rowing honors for the United States.

The Golden Bears returned to the Hudson River this year with practically the same crew as last summer. Columbia, also with the same nucleus, is declared to be a better crew than last year or in 1927 when it captured varsity honors.

Cornell is Dark Horse. A third name enters the reckoning this year, a name famous on this course—Cornell, regarded as the "dark horse" of the varsity race. Cornell has not put out a winning varsity crew from that shabby boathouse down near the finish of the course since June 28, 1915. Prior to that year, Cornell had registered 12 victories in 20 regattas of the association.

One man made most of that success, the great Charles (Pop) Courtney, Cornell's famous rowing coach. After his death in 1920, the regatta was declared to be a better crew than last year or in 1927 when it captured varsity honors.

But with nine crews on the Hudson almost anything can happen once the race is on and virtually every one of them is potentially dangerous.

Navy Must Be Figured. There is Washington's crew of giants, which is believed to have caught finally some of the magic touch of Navy crews of old; Wisconsin and its new coach, Mike Murphy of Yale fame; M. I. T., a newcomer to the local course; a physically strong Syracuse crew; and Pennsylvania with its late season show of strength.

In the race for freshman honors, Cornell will be the local favorite, while California and Pennsylvania are favored over Columbia, Navy, M. I. T. and Pennsylvania.

In the thirty-second annual regatta, Cornell will be the local favorite, while California and Pennsylvania are favored over Columbia, Navy, M. I. T. and Pennsylvania.

The varsity race will start at 7:15.

St. Michaels Win From St. Anthonys In Title Contest

St. Michaels won from St. Anthonys, 17 to 9, yesterday afternoon in the first of a three-game series to decide the Parochial League championship.

Buyat, pitcher for St. Michaels, allowed only six scattered hits. Not one of the opposition got more than one hit. Lyons and Bickie, St. Michael players, led their mates in a hitting spree against Schmalle of St. Anthonys, each collecting three hits. Each scored four runs.

HOW TO HIT HARD

As Told to a Special Representative by Jack Dempsey of the Post-Dispatch.

This photo of Jack Dempsey's back, neck, shoulder and arm developments gives a graphic idea of his punching power but—it was "a twist of the hips" that actually put the "sleep potion" in the Dempsey K. O. wallop. Such a "twist," when perfected, mobilizes all the weight and hitting force of a boxer into punches. The above photo was taken just before Dempsey's socking classic with Firpo in 1923.

"Keep Punching" All the Time Is Former World Champion's Advice to Young Fighters.

Chapter IX. (Copyright, 1929.) "After all's spoken, written and demonstrated, that still stands up as the basic rule of ring warfare, and the most vital of them all.

And yet, amazing though it may seem, there are countless men in the game who violate the regulation, punch only in spasmodic fashion, and then complain about some unkind fate which keeps them from scaling the heights.

No man ever achieved any real success in any endeavor in life without working and fighting and punching all the way. You've got to keep on punching from bell to bell. If you do that, and you punch with the weight of your body behind the drives, success will come.

If you must do some resting, do it before the fight, between rounds, or after the fight. Don't do it while the battle is being fought. That is punching time.

Case of Tom Gibbons. There was Tommy Gibbons. In his youthful years, Tommy was one of those "light hitters." And Tommy also wasn't much of a believer in the "keep-on-punching" adage.

Tommy let the other fellow do most of the punching. He just blocked, ducked or sidestepped. Very fancy stuff and all that—but it didn't get Tommy much more fame than to be called "Mike Gibbons' brother."

Then came a day when Tommy decided there must be something in this "keep-on-punching" advice. He gave it a tryout. It worked wonders for Tommy. He schooled himself in the trick of punching with the ENTIRE BODY behind the drives.

Within a single year Tommy, by crowding in and swinging every punch with the weight of your body behind the drives, success will come. This story is about the only one needed to impress any youngster with the fame and glory and the cash that can be gained when a man keeps on punching and puts his entire body into his drives.

Fans Want Knockouts. Boxing is scientific and it may be something pretty to look at for those who like it. But this seems to be an era when the regular customers demand a knockout for their money. They want to see a slugger in operation and they will contribute handsomely for the privilege.

If you want to get anywhere in ringdom, it seems to me that the one and only way of insuring realization of your ambition is to follow advice like this:

(1) Learn to punch with the entire body in your blows.

(2) Throw every real punch with knockout intent.

(3) Discard the "safety first" principle and carry the fight to your enemy.

(4) Keep on punching: (THE END.)

WRAY'S COLUMN

"Getting the Gate." At the post in the American Derby, the prize to the winner was $100,000.

Several hopes were literally kicked into the discard. A bad actor, Paul Bunyan, launched out with steel-shod hoofs. He landed on three neighboring candidates lined up at the barrier.

One of these, Nalshapur, he cut severely on the leg and not only ruined his chance of the Derby prize, but also injured him so badly that he may not be able to start again all season.

Minotaur and Dr. Freeland, two other great horses, were also injured by Bunyan and may not be able to race.

Obviously it is unfair that one horse should jeopardize three and temporarily, in its scramble for the vacant bantam championship throne, meet the new champion, Alphonse Teapilo Brown, who is the only heavyweight champion in history to lose his title by refusing to "take the scratch." HOOVER PLEDGES LAW OBSERVANCE BY DRY AGENTS

Declares Government Has No Intention of Transgressing Statutes in Enforcement of Prohibition.

By the Associated Press.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 22.—Appeals to President Hoover from the local city council for relief from what was described as an "unbearable situation," resulting from prohibition enforcement activities in this section, brought a reply from the White House that the Federal Government does not intend in any way to transgress the limits of the law.

The letter from the President, received yesterday under date of June 18, was in reply to a telegram dispatched by the City Council after the slaying of Henry Virkula, big game confectioner by a Federal border patrol sent in search of liquor runners.

"I have your telegram of today's date," the President's letter said. "The matter has been referred to the Treasury Department. You may rest assured there is no intention on the part of the Federal Government in any way to transgress the limits of the law."

troil and search of liquor craft for weapons during the United States offensive against Detroit River liquor smuggling was urged today by Alfred E. Cuddy, Deputy Commissioner of Ontario Police.

Along inspecting export docks along the Canadian side of the Detroit River from Lake Erie to Lake St. Clair, Cuddy said he would recommend to Attorney-General A. H. Price that additional officers be stationed along the Essex County waterfront as a precaution against shooting on the river which might result in serious complications.

He said he considered search of liquor runners and their craft for weapons and other contraband a matter for the Dominion customs inspectors in which provincial police could assist.

No armed liquor runners or boats were found at any of the export docks he visited, he said. Cuddy was in reply to a telegram dispatched by the City Council after the slaying of Henry Virkula, big game confectioner by a Federal border patrol sent in search of liquor runners.

Cuddy also investigated the ridding of a Canadian pleasure craft by machine gun fire from a United States customs patrol boat a few days ago. He said after inspecting the craft that it never had been used in liquor smuggling. The name of the owner was withheld.

Charges of attempting murder await on both sides of the river for the liquor runners who opened fire on a customs patrol boat last Wednesday. On the Canadian side, Cuddy said that if they are identified, charges would be placed against them in Ontario courts. He said he was convinced the persons involved were Americans.

Walter S. Petty, Acting Collector of Customs for Detroit, said that if the men were captured in Canada their extradition to face charges of attempted murder in United States courts would be demanded.

GIBSON TO GIVE DAWES DATA ON DISARMAMENT

Will Go to London and Inform U. S. Ambassador
on Present Status and Proposed Naval Formula.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—For his future discussions of the naval reduction question in England, Ambassador Dawson is to have the benefit of detailed information from Ambassador Gibson, who first set forth the American proposal that a new formula be worked out for evaluating the strength of sea power as a basis for further disarmament negotiations.

Ambassador Gibson, who is stationed at Brussels and headed the American delegation at the Geneva meeting of the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission, has been authorized by President Hoover to go to London next week to discuss the situation with Dawson. He will inform Dawson on the current status of the situation before the commission, and also will give him full, first-hand details of the formula proposal and its origin.

That information undoubtedly will prove valuable to the Ambassador to Great Britain during the continuation of the Anglo-American negotiations now under way, which will remain directly in his hands for several months at least. While Prime Minister MacDonald plans to come to Washington for personal discussion with President Hoover of the relations between the United States and Great Britain, he is not likely to make the trip until he has completed the organization of his Government and piloted his new administration through its early weeks.

No Conference Likely Soon.

Meanwhile, American officials are convinced that no naval disarmament conference between the two nations is probable in the near future, even though MacDonald does come here in two or three months. They regard predictions that such a conference is in prospect as shooting beyond the mark, especially in view of the President's position that agreement on a new formula for measuring naval strength is necessary before such an undertaking could be approached with hope of success.

The visit of Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, to Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday furnished a point of irritation for high administration officials, but the only formal statement was one by Secretary Stimson embodying a denial by the British Ambassador that he had discussed the freedom of the seas with the Idaho Senator.

After morning newspapers had recorded the call of Sir Esme on Senator Borah, the Ambassador called Secretary Stimson on the telephone and they subsequently had a conference.

Stimson later issued this formal statement:

"The British Ambassador called on me this morning to say, in connection with the article published today in the Washington Post to the effect that he had had a conversation with Senator Borah on the subject of the freedom of the seas, that there is no foundation whatever for this statement, that the subject of freedom of the seas was not mentioned in any way either by Senator Borah or the British Ambassador."

From other sources came the information that naval disarmament had been touched upon briefly in the conversation, which lasted only about 10 minutes.

Senator Borah had no comment to offer either on the Ambassador's visit or the State Department statement. However, he is known to be deeply interested in the subject of the freedom of the seas and has long contended that naval disarmament can be little meaning unless and until there is an agreement for the freedom of the seas—for the recognition of the rights of neutrals by belligerent nations.

Dawes Showed Speech in Advance to Diplomats.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—It was learned today that Ambassador Dawson, after conferring with Premier MacDonald of Great Britain last Saturday, called on the Japanese and French Ambassadors, the Italian Charge d'Affaires in London and the Canadian High Commissioner and showed them a copy of the speech he later delivered on the naval question. The diplomats were present when he made his speech.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the woman's endurance flight record, last night telephoned to her family here that she had been forced down and her plane disabled in mountainous territory near Stroudsburg, Pa.

URGES THAT JUDGES BE JURY ADVISERS, NOT FIGUREHEADS

Gurney E. Newlin, Head of U. S. Bar Association, Addresses Iowa Lawyers.

By the Associated Press.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., June 22.—A plea for modification of the rules of court procedure to permit the trial judge to act as an adviser to the jury rather than "assume the rather humiliating position of a mere figurehead or colorless moderator," was made yesterday by Gurney E. Newlin, president of the American Bar Association.

"To see that the facts are ascertained and made clear rather than submerged and obscured, that the law is honestly and fearlessly applied to such facts and that no unfair advantage is taken by any party or by its lawyer—that, I submit, is the supreme function of the presiding judge in the institution of trial by jury," Newlin said.

Newlin was speaker at the Iowa Bar Association convention. He defended the system of trial by jury for the abolition of which, he said, much agitation has been made. He disputed the argument that right of the judge to comment on the evidence would tend to make the jurist "dominate the jury." Such an argument "questions and doubts both the competency of our judges and the capacity and intelligence of our jurors," he said.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Edna Macauley, long regarded as one of the prettiest girls on the New York stage, was buried yesterday from the American Cathedral in Paris. DEFENSE FOR MADDOX RULED OUT BY BOARD

Members Decline to Hear Rollins' Statement at Special Meeting.

Myrt A. Rollins, the only member of the Board of Education who has announced support of Superintendent of Instruction John J. Maddox for re-appointment at the July meeting of the board, repeated yesterday his defense of Maddox at a recess meeting.

This meeting was called to consider a site for the new West Belle School for Negroes and Rollins was declared out of order when he read his prepared statement, later made public. Assistant Superintendent

Henry J. Gerling is scheduled to be appointed successor of Maddox. "If the charge be true that Mr. Maddox lacks executive ability and has failed to sell himself to the board and promote harmony in the board, I ask, what is the price?" Rollins said.

Rollins declared it would be "wrong to oust Maddox until a more outstanding man can be found, or an effort made to do so." He challenged other board members to prove where Maddox "once failed to do his duty."
